THE B2B PLATFORM FOR THE PRINTING INDUSTRY, MACHINERY AND PLANT ENGINEERING

Tight production schedules require flexible spare and wear parts management with short reaction times. MARKET-X, the online trading platform from manroland Goss web systems GmbH, is set up to consistently meet these requirements.

Quality, performance capability and availability; these are the characteristics which customers expect when they purchase spare and wear parts from manroland Goss web systems. For this reason, the offer extends well beyond our own products, to cover all areas concerned with the printing industry.

Purchase quality

Ordering ORIGINAL spare and wear parts and authorized consumables from MARKET-X is easy and convenient and serves to permanently secure the maximum availability and productivity of your printing machine, as well as the highest level of printing quality possible. MARKET-X boasts a comprehensive product portfolio of tested quality, meaning you can save time, and of course money, thanks to the attractive online prices.

Comfortable product search

MARKET-X means that you can always find the exact parts for your printing press in your press-specific wear and spare parts catalogue, supported by a user oriented navigation system and (where available) detailed exploded view drawings. All parts are represented with their relevant material number and the associated price, meaning you only have to choose the selected part and transfer it to your shopping basket per mouse click. A general consumables catalogue rounds off the offer from MARKET-X.

Further information

A comprehensive product database shows you additional successor products, alternative and related products, various packing units, further accessories and bulk prices.

Furthermore, many products have detailed product descriptions, product data sheets, pictures, animated drawings and videos.

Product availability

Many parts, in particular standard wear parts, are always kept on stock by manroland Goss web systems. In the MARKET-X shopping basket, you can immediately see the availability of your desired product and can then decide whether to take partial delivery, comprising of the immediately available products, or to wait for the complete delivery. You can choose between the various service providers for your delivery, including DHL and FedEx. Each order receipt is confirmed by email, and the separate delivery confirmation includes the tracking number.

Simple purchasing

Each order can be stored for repeat orders as a new purchase template or added to existing purchase templates. The "order history" function retrieves all your previous purchases for you, making repeat purchasing simple. Also practical: The contents of the shopping basket can be up or downloaded as an Excel file (.csv).

Simplified merchandise management

MARKET-X can be linked to your internal ordering and processing system. This ensures that all relevant data is available directly in your own merchandise management system.

Attractive online prices and payment methods

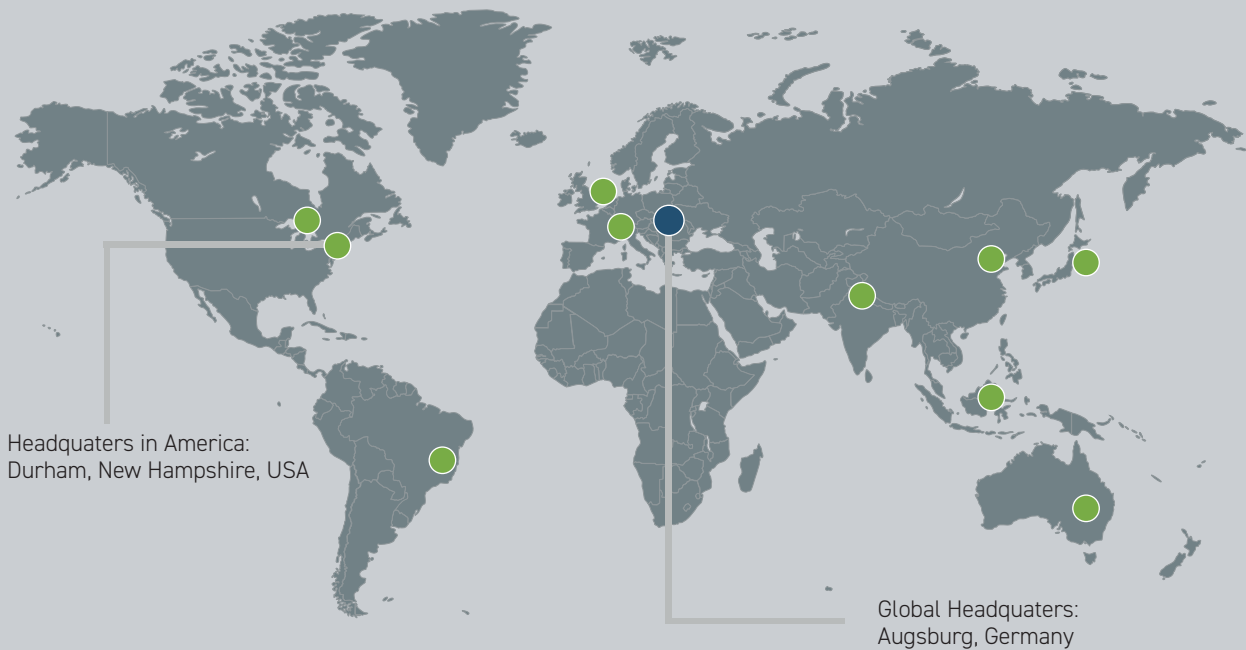

Thanks to the fully automated order processing, you will profit from attractive online prices and individual special offers in MARKET-X. And when it comes to time to pay, you can choose between conventional bank transfer, pay conveniently by credit card (MasterCard, VISA), or immediate bank transfer.
